

Neurodiversity Celebration Week is a worldwide initiative that challenges stereotypes and misconceptions about neurological differences. Click here to find out more: Videos | Neurodiversity Celebration Week \(neurodiversityweek.com\)

Walk in my Shoes - a short animated film about how it might feel to walk in the shoes of someone with Autistic Spectrum Difference

Amazing this happen - The Amazing Things project is an ongoing animation initiative aimed at promoting understanding and acceptance in future generations.

Neurodiversity - It takes all kinds of different minds. Graeme Simsion, the author of Rosie's Project featuring an autistic protagonist talks about associated autism with great achievements.

A quote from one of his books says of Rosie: "I was a scientist, I was autistic - these were my key strengths."

Dyspraxia and Me - an animated film about Abi who describes what it is like to have the diagnosis of dyspraxia.

I am dyslexic - short animated student film

The UK Royal Navy Neurodiversity Celebration. Nick Hine, the second Sea Lord shares his experiences of autism. "Today's challenges mean that diversity of thought has never been more important."

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?app=desktop&v=j4stO8fTujE&feature=youtu.be>

